SEQUOIA LIVING℠
Never Stop Growing

August 3, 2026

Dear Heritage on the Marina Residents and Team Members,

First, a heartfelt thank-you to everyone who joined Sequoia Living's leadership on July 23. Your thoughtful questions, positive spirit, and genuine engagement made the conversation especially meaningful.

For those who were unable to attend, we are also sharing a recording of the meeting. We prepared a brief PowerPoint presentation and larger-scale presentation boards, so everyone has an opportunity to explore the proposed plans and stay connected as the conversation continues.

In the meantime, we want to highlight a few key points from the meeting, so everyone has a shared understanding of the affiliation and the proposed redevelopment.

The San Francisco Ladies' Protection and Relief Society board has approved Sequoia Living's use of, and proposed amendments to, the existing Heritage on the Marina redevelopment entitlements. The amendments would increase the number of Independent Living residences to 132, including the Flats, while allowing for renovation of the second and third floors of the Julia Morgan Building and reimagining its first floor.

Beyond adding new homes and revitalizing the Julia Morgan Building, the proposed plan would create a Julia Morgan Center celebrating her extraordinary architectural legacy. Creation of the Center would require the relocation of the Stone Cottage to the southwest corner of the property where it could be accessible to the public. The primary exhibit would celebrate Morgan's work within the Bay Area, as well as rotating exhibits focusing on subjects such as women in architecture, deep dives on specific Morgan projects, and partnerships with local architecture schools. The Center will also offer the opportunity for Heritage residents to serve as Docents.

During the meeting, conceptual drawings of what the renovated Heritage on the Marina could look like were shown with the caveat that they were very preliminary and subject to change. The Flats will remain as they are today. Because the Perry Building would be replaced as part of the proposed plan, residents living there would relocate before construction begins.

We recognize that relocating is a significant and deeply personal undertaking. Our priority is to explore whether residents can remain in the Julia Morgan Building during construction while others may temporarily move to another Sequoia Living community—all while continuing under the financial terms of your current contracts. We will cover costs and provide personalized relocation services and support to manage every step of the move. Most importantly, every current resident will have the opportunity to return to the renewed Heritage under the same contract and financial terms.

The application to amend the redevelopment entitlements will happen in early 2027. After that, Sequoia Living will still need to obtain financing and approvals, which means construction will not begin until 2029.

To begin planning for the redevelopment and potential relocations, sales efforts will pause. During this time, we are exploring ways in which the sales team may contribute to the evolving needs of the community, the eventual relocation, or align with an available position at a Sequoia location, while recognizing that future roles have not yet been determined.

Heritage on the Marina team members are at the heart of this community. As plans evolve and the affiliation progresses, every effort will be made to identify meaningful opportunities—whether at Heritage, in support of resident relocations, or at another Sequoia Living community. Praveen Rattan, and the entire Heritage team, will continue to guide daily operations, with the Sequoia Living team working alongside them throughout this journey.

To get to know one another and deepen our understanding of the Heritage community and what you hold dear, Sequoia Living will be onsite each week to listen, learn, and connect. Upcoming visits include:

- Paula Rathgaber-Gomez, Chief Experience Officer - August 4th
- Prab Brinton, Chief People and Performance Officer - August 10th
- Sara McVey, President and CEO - August 17th
- Paul Friesen, Vice President of Operations & Finance - August 24th

A dedicated office will make it easy for us to connect. We will share the ongoing onsite schedule as it is finalized.

Sara will begin holding her "Sippin' with Sara" meetings at the Heritage on a regular basis starting August 18th at 4:00 PM. These sit downs will give residents and team members the opportunity to connect and ask questions that are the top of mind.

In the meantime, residents and team members can always direct questions to Questions@SequoiaLiving.org. We will track all questions received and share written responses each month.

Best regards,

Sara McVey
